FEI General Regulations

The General Assembly approved the main modifications to the FEI General Regulations.

The 23rd edition of the FEI General Regulations, with the updates effective from 1 January 2017, will be published on the FEI website here.

Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games formats - Jumping, Dressage, Eventing

The proposed changes to the competition formats for the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games were approved by the General Assembly and will now go to the IOC Executive Board for final approval in 2017. They are summarised below:

Jumping

- Teams of three horse/athlete combinations per nation, plus one reserve combination, no drop score
- 20 teams (60 horse/athlete combinations)
- 15 slots for nations not qualified with a team (maximum one horse/athlete combination per nation)
- Individual event will now take place before Team event
- Cut-off score: the exact cut-off and resulting penalty will be finalised in the Olympic Regulations
- The exact penalty for any horse/athlete combination that is eliminated, or does not complete their round for any reason, will be finalised in the Olympic Regulations

Dressage

- Teams of three horse/athlete combinations per nation, no drop score
- Each directly qualified team may bring a reserve rider/horse combination, or horse only
- One individual per nation not represented by a qualified team (no composite teams)
- Determine Team medals solely through results of Grand Prix Special (no longer a combination of Grand Prix and Grand Prix Special scores)
- Introduce new "heat system" (including "lucky losers") for Grand Prix: 18 individuals to qualify from Grand Prix to Grand Prix Freestyle (best two from each of the 6 heats, plus the next 6 with the best overall results)
- 8 top teams (24 starters) from Grand Prix to qualify for Grand Prix Special
- Introduce new system for starting order in Grand Prix
- Conduct Grand Prix Special to music

Eventing

- Teams of three horse/athlete combinations per nation, no drop score
- One reserve combination per team will be allowed. The reserve combination is an important element of the proposal in order to preserve horse welfare. If a reserve combination is substituted, it will incur a penalty for the team. The exact penalty will be finalised in the Olympic Regulations
- Maximum of two individuals per nation not represented by a team
- Order of tests to remain unchanged (1st Dressage; 2nd Cross Country; 3rd Jumping Team; 4th Jumping Individual)
- Olympic Eventing to take place over three days (Dressage test reduced to one day)
- Technical level of the three tests to be defined as the "Olympic level": Dressage and Jumping 4*; Cross Country: 10-minute optimum time, 45 jumping efforts, and 3* technical difficulty

- Qualification of athletes/horses to be achieved on the same Cross Country technical level to ensure implementation of the recommendations of the FEI Independent Audit in Eventing
- For the purpose of the Team classification only: any horse/athlete combinations not completing a test can continue to the next test if accepted as fit to compete at the relevant Horse Inspection
- For the purpose of the Team classification only: penalties for the non-completion of a test for any reason, Dressage =100 points, Cross Country = 150, Jumping = 100
- Rules for the Individual event remain unchanged

Tokyo 2020 Paralympic Games format - Para-Equestrian Dressage

The proposed changes to the competition formats for the Tokyo 2020 Paralympic Games were approved by the General Assembly and are summarised below:

- Teams of three horse/athlete combinations per nation, no drop score
- Each directly qualified team is entitled to bring four horse/athlete combinations, of which three will have to be declared to compete on the team after the Individual Championships test, in which all four will compete as Individuals.
- Maximum of two individuals per nation not represented by a team (no composite teams)
- Determine Team medals solely through results of Team test (no longer a combination of Team and Individual test scores)
- Top 8 per grade from the Individual test to qualify for the Freestyle test
- Order of tests: Individual Championship test, Team test, Freestyle
- Team test to be set to music

The General Assembly was updated on the latest highlights from FEI Solidarity, the FEI's global sport development programme, by FEI President and Chair of the FEI Solidarity Committee Ingmar De Vos.

During the last five years, FEI Solidarity has financed over 154 National Federation projects, with 42 of these projects still ongoing, the FEI President said.

Tangible results can now be seen specifically from the Athlete Training programmes, where it is clear that development is linked directly to participation at key Games. Five out of the seven Athlete Training projects supported by FEI Solidarity in the Pan American region achieved the objective to qualify and send a Team or Individual Athlete to the Pan American Games 2015 in Toronto (CAN). There have been similar successes in Group IX.

In September 2016, the FEI Solidarity Committee agreed to support a further 73 new projects from 41 National Federations.

The General Assembly also approved the composition of the FEI Solidarity Committee 2017:

Group I: Ingmar De Vos (BEL), FEI President and FEI Solidarity Committee Chair

Group II: Theo Ploegmakers, President, Royal Dutch Equestrian Federation

Group III: Alexandru Tuceac, President, Republic of Moldova Equestrian Federation
